

Interim Service Overview

Version 1.1 · 30 September 2026

TEKMERIS Global is the trading name of Haikou Meixi International Trade Co., Ltd.

What the record tells you

TEKMERIS documents agreed on-site observations. For products, individually identified tamper-evident seals link covered packaging to the relevant observation record. Where a facility badge has been issued, it links to a dated record of the areas and activities covered. Records distinguish what TG observed from information supplied by others and information independently confirmed.

Agree the scope first

Buyers, producers, facility operators and service partners may commission TG, including for their own premises or production batch. Individuals, including prospective guests and patients, may enquire about a scoped factual facility visit, subject to acceptance and access. An enquiry does not book a visit or authorise site contact. Scope, quotation, payment and authorisation precede the agreed access-check work. Fees pay for the work, not a favourable finding.

Products and covered packaging

The manufacturer's production-batch ID, TG's engagement reference and each package serial identify different things. The exact package list defines seal coverage; a serial range alone does not. Findings apply only to the agreed activity and scope. A lookup does not inspect a physical seal's present condition or guarantee package contents, quality or safety.

Optional laboratory testing

Testing is optional, independent and separately charged. The client chooses the laboratory or requests recommendations. TG may coordinate instructions; the factory dispatches samples directly. TG does not take physical custody of peptides, perform laboratory testing or issue the laboratory's report. A laboratory report concerns identified samples and tests; it does not mean every package was tested. No laboratory report recorded does not by itself mean a failed or incomplete observation engagement.

Facility visits and report access

A facility report records the named site, visit date, agreed scope and evidence limits. A badge is not accreditation or a professional-qualification audit. TG does not recommend treatment or determine personal suitability. A private report does not automatically confer a public badge.

Authorised public summaries and full reports are distinct. Full-report access requires permission and authorised disclosure; a request does not itself grant access. Third-party reports remain separate documents. Read the scope and status on the relevant record. Existing signed engagement terms remain applicable. This overview is a short service reference. The current 65-point Standard v3.2 explains checkpoint applicability, evidence handling and unresolved issuance boundaries.
